Industry Experience

Life Sciences Transactions Associate
Reed Smith LLP

Preclinical Imaging Shared Resource Manager
Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey

Neil Campbell joined Faber in 2021, after working in the life sciences transactional practice for a leading global law firm. He counsels clients in a variety of transactional matters relating to drug and device clinical trials, supply chain, licensing and collaboration, service arrangements and technology evaluation agreements. Prior to starting his legal career, Neil spent a decade as a biomedical researcher. In that role, he gained a deep scientific and industry context that enables him to appreciate clients' scientific development strategies and provide them with thoughtful and pragmatic counsel.
